

Report on Top 5 Execution Venues and related information

For Retail Clients

Objective

Directive 2014/65/EU of the Parliament and the Council of 15 May 2014 on markets in financial instruments (MiFID II) and its delegated legislation require Luminor Bank AB (the Bank) to summarise and make public on an annual basis, the top five execution venues for each class of financial instruments in terms of trading volumes where the Bank has executed or transmitted client orders in the preceding year as well as to prepare a summary of the analysis and conclusions of monitoring of the quality of execution obtained.

This report (the Report) is intended to enable the public and investors to evaluate the quality of the Bank's execution practices by requiring publication of valuable information about how and where the Bank has executed client orders.

This Report is prepared for the period from 1 January 2017 to 31 December 2017. Considering that the Report is prepared for the period before MIFID II and delegated legislation came into force, the Bank is not able to fully report on information which is not available or applicable in relation to the preceding year. The Report is prepared on best effort basis, but may lack some granularity in comparison to subsequent reports due to the lack of data on the identification of the subclasses of the classes of financial instruments based on liquidity, lack of a complete information on the exact proportion of passive and aggressive orders executed on each of the execution venues it used in the previous year, as well as other information because collection of such detailed information under MiFID I best execution obligations has not been required.

Relative importance given to the execution factors and differences according to client categorisation

The Bank has considered a number of factors that might be important to clients when the Bank executes their orders. Price, costs, speed of execution, likelihood of execution and settlement, size and nature as well as other factors that may be relevant to the order (for example, market impact – the effect that executing client's order, or showing it to market participants, might have upon the market).

When the Bank executes orders on behalf of retail (non-professional) clients, best execution is determined on the basis of the total consideration paid by the client. Total consideration is the price of the financial instrument and the costs related to execution, including all expenses incurred by the client which are directly related to the execution of the order such as venue execution fees, clearing and settlement fees and any other fees paid to third parties involved in the execution of the order. When assessing whether best execution has been achieved, the Bank does not take into account its standard charges that will be paid by the client irrespective of how the order is executed.

When the Bank executes orders on behalf of professional clients, it will use reasonable judgement to weigh different execution factors at the time of execution in accordance with execution criteria. Even where it seems that the price of financial instruments was not the best available, the order may still be considered executed on the terms most favourable to the client.

More information is available in The Policy for Execution of Orders in Financial Instruments, which is published on the Bank's website.
